Hasbro's development of the SPEAK OUT game follows the incredible success of last year's PIE FACE game, which took off after a video of a grandfather and grandson playing together became a viral sensation.

"Both PIE FACE and SPEAK OUT are as fun to watch as they are to play - a key element for a great game and a terrific opportunity for Hasbro to extend viral play patterns to gaming fans around the world," said Jonathan Berkowitz, senior vice president of global marketing for Hasbro Gaming. "We're looking to provide consumers with exciting, authentic gameplay experiences driven by real people and real moments and are thrilled to deliver the side-splitting SPEAK OUT game this summer."

The SPEAK OUT game will be on display at the Hasbro Gaming booth at VidCon, taking place June 23 - June 25 in Anaheim, California, and will be available to play at the convention's Creator's Party, giving attendees the first chance to demo the game before it hits shelves. Hasbro will also team up with entertainer Joe Santagato, whose "Watch Ya' Mouth" challenge video received nearly 45 million views to date, to create custom SPEAK OUT content for social media and a game expansion.

The SPEAK OUT game includes five mouth pieces, 200 double sided Content Cards, and a one-minute sand-timer. The SPEAK OUT game will be available for players ages 16 years and up this August in the U.S., U.K., and Canada for an approximate retail prices of $19.99 at most major retailers and HasbroToyShop.com. The game will also be available in multiple markets including France, Germany, and Spain later this fall.
