Hasbro Recognized for Employee Health and Wellness Programs

Hasbro Named a "Health Champion" by the American Diabetes Association

PAWTUCKET, R.I. -- Hasbro, Inc. (NASDAQ: HAS), today announced that it has been named a "Health Champion" by the American Diabetes Association for its commitment to the health and well-being of its employees. To qualify for the Health Champion designation, a company must meet healthy living criteria in three areas: Nutrition and Weight Management, Physical Activity and Organizational Well-Being.

"We recognize that our employees are our greatest strength and most valuable asset, so we're deeply committed to supporting the health and well-being of our people," said Dolph Johnson, Executive Vice President and Chief Human Resource Officer at Hasbro. "I'm proud that Hasbro has been recognized for our commitment in this area because it's something we take very seriously."

Hasbro offers a variety of initiatives and services to help employees achieve adopt and maintain healthy habits, including: on-site fitness centers, healthful meals in the company cafeterias, programming dedicated to mindfulness and meditation, Weight Watchers at Work, yoga classes, 5k training, and smoking cessation plans. Hasbro's programs are designed to support the whole employee across four areas: movement, nutrition, health and happiness.

In addition to this recognition from the American Diabetes Association, Hasbro has been recognized by the American Heart Association as a Gold-Level Fit-Friendly Worksite and by the Greater Providence Chamber of Commerce and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Rhode Island with a 2016 Worksite Health Award.
