

Hasbro Selects Winner in Indiegogo Crowdfunding Gaming Challenge

December 18, 2015

PAWTUCKET, R.I.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- After narrowing down more than 500 game concept entries, Hasbro, Inc. (NASDAQ: HAS) has officially selected 'Irresponsibility: The Mr Toast card game' as the grand prize winner in its crowdfunding gaming challenge. With the belief that innovative game ideas can come from anywhere, Hasbro launched the challenge earlier this year with Indiegogo.com, asking game designers nationwide to share ideas for a new face-to-face party game.

The winning game, created by Dan Goodsell from Los Angeles, CA is a fast-paced, family friendly card game featuring comic character Mr Toast and his fun friends including Joe the Egg and Sharky Bacon. In the game, players try to shirk responsibility by having fun being irresponsible while also trying to stop their opponents by saddling them with more responsibility.

The 'Irresponsibility' game was one of five finalists in Hasbro's gaming challenge and was picked from more than 500 submissions to run crowdfunding campaigns that were promoted on Hasbro's partner page on Indiegogo.com. The finalists' Indiegogo campaigns closed on December 1, with 'Irresponsibility: The Mr Toast card game' raising more than $10,000 from more than 200 backers.

"We had a lot of fun watching the finalists' campaigns grow over the past month on Indiegogo.com," said Brian Chapman, head of design and development at Hasbro. "The winning game, 'Irresponsibility: The Mr Toast card game' impressed us with its fresh concept, great characters and simple, but fun game play that the entire family can enjoy."

"We love that Hasbro chose Indiegogo's global community of early adopters to source their next big idea," said Jerry Needel, Indiegogo's Senior Vice President of Corporate Partnerships. "We're really excited to see the results of the unique combination of Dan's idea, Indiegogo's backers and Hasbro's game development expertise."

Chosen as the grand prize winner based on the game's gameplay mechanics, theme, potential for 'fun-ness' and viability, 'Irresponsibility: The Mr Toast card game' creator Dan Goodsell will receive the $10,000 prize and a trip to Hasbro headquarters for advice, mentoring and assistance from Hasbro's game development team to help make his game a reality.

"It's really thrilling to have 'Irresponsibility: The Mr Toast Card Game' chosen as the winner of Hasbro's crowdfunding gaming challenge," said Dan Goodsell, game creator. "I have to thank all my longtime Mr Toast fans and brand new fans for making my Indiegogo campaign such a success. Now I'm looking forward to visiting Hasbro and speaking with their team about how I can make the Mr Toast card game a reality."

Made up of a team of passionate enthusiasts and designers, the Hasbro Gaming Lab has a mission to discover and develop great new games, connect with the growing gaming community, and bring fresh experiences to gamers everywhere.
